POETRY

3. Akenside, Mark. The Pleasures of Imagination by Mark Akenside [Daniel Joudon reward of merit]. Philadelphia:
Printed for B. Johnson, J. Johnson, and R. Johnson, 1804. 180 p., engraved frontispiece; 15 cm. Contemporary calf with modern japanese tissue repair to joints; red morocco spine label with gilttooled title: Pleasures of Imagination. Frontispiece states:
"Publish'd by B.J. & R. Johnson 1804." Apparently bound without the final section (pp. 181-188), headed The Beginning of the Fourth Book, and the one-page table of contents. Early American Imprints, Ser. 2 (Shaw-Shoemaker), 5671. Handwritten rewards of merit preceed title page. Daniel Jaudon presented the book to a student, Mary Parker Fox, whom he mistakenly calls Mary P. Norris on the frontispiece verso. Having corrected her name, her then wrote out a clean copy on the previous blank leaf. Both are dated June 1, 1805, Harmony Hall. Daniel Jaudon (1767-1826) ran a young ladies' school in Philadelphia and was the author of several textbooks. Without the final 8 pages; otherwise, in Very Good Condition: professional japanese tissue repair to joints; loss to edges of spine label, in particular the lower edge; minor foxing; pages are lightly browning but otherwise clean and tight. (#005066) $75.00

4. Fry, John. Select Poems, Containing Religious Epistles, &c. Occasionally written On Various Subjects: To which is now added, The History of Elijah and Elisha. London: James Phillips, 1783. viii, 211, [1] p.; 18 cm. Contemporary full speckled calf with five spine compartments between raised bands; double blind-ruled border on each board with additinal blind-rolled decoration along spine. Preface is dated 1774. The History of Elijah and Elisha has separate title page dated 1782 but is paginated continuously with Select Poems. ESTC, T140566. Former owner's name on front free endpaper: Sarah Mifflin. Front fixed endpaper bears bookplate of the Aimwell School Library. In 1796 the Society for the Free Instruction of Female Children was established in Philadelphia by three Quaker women; the name Aimwell School was adopted in 1807. Remains of handwritten paper label at head of spine. The author, John Fry (1701-1775), was an English

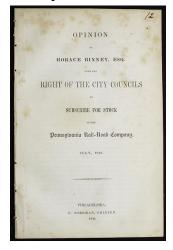

Quaker poet. Among the poems in this book is "On George Fox, and his Mission." Scarce. In Good Condition: loss of 4 cm. at tail of spine and 1 cm. loss at head; edges are rubbed with minor loss; lacking 1x2-cm. along fore-edge of front board; browning and foxing throughout, with soiling on a few pages. (#005060) $85.00

5. Voltaire, Francois. La Pucelle d'Orléans, Poeme en Vigt-Un Chants, par M. de Voltaire; avec les Notes & Variantes. Amsterdam: Marc-Michel Rey, 1788. Woodcut tailpieces. Voltaire's satire about the life of Joan of Arc was banned in much of Europe and, hence, very popular. In Very Good Condition: leather is rubbed; spine repaired with japanese tissue; edges of first and last leaves darkened from glue used on fixed endpapers; some pages lightly browning; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005070) $175.00

6. Binney, Horace. Opinion of Horace Binney, Esq. upon the Right of the City Councils to

Subscribe for Stock in the Pennsylvania Rail-Road Company; July, 1846. Philadelphia: C. Sherman, printer, 1846. 32 p.; 22 cm. Lacking wrapper. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "12" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Philadelphia lawyer Horace Binney (1780-1875) served in the Pennsylvania legislature in 1806 and 1807, and in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1833 to 1835. In 1846 the Pennsylvania Railroad was incorporated and began to seek subscribers to its stock. At a public meeting, a resolution was adopted recommending that Philadelphia and other municipalities in the state become subscribers, which would require that taxes be levied to cover the costs. In this publication, Binney explains his opinion that Philadelphia did not have the authority to authorize a subscription to the railroad stock or to establish a tax to pay for such a subscription. In spite of this, Philadelphia did eventually subscribe to $2.5 million worth of railroad stock. However, in 1857 the Pennsylvania legislature decided that Binney's arguments were valid and passed a law prohibiting cities from becoming stockholders in railroads and other companies. Scarce. In Very Good- Condition: lacking wrapper; foxing, heavy on a few pages; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005094) $85.00

7. Dufour, Gabriel Michel. Traité Général de Droit Administratif Appliqué ou Exposé de la

Doctrine et de la Jurisprudence par M. G. Dufour. Paris: Delamotte Aîné, 1843. Five spine compartments with red leather spine labels with gilt-tooled title in second compartment and black leather spine labels with gilt-tooled volume number in fourth compartment. Gilt-tooled decoration in remaining compartments. Imprint includes: "et chez l'Auteur, Rue Godot de Mauroy, 25." Vol. 2 contains a 3-page advertisement for Cours de Droit Francais suivant le Code Civil by Duranton published by G. Thorel and E. Guilbert. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition: rubbed; minor loss at head of vol. 3 spine; foxing on first few leaves of each volume; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005121) $875.00

8. Grier, Robert Cooper. The State of Pennsylvania vs. the Wheeling and Belmont Bridge Company & Others: In the Supreme Court of the United States, in vacation; Motion for Injunction before Mr. Justice Grier. Harrisburg: J.M.G. Lescure, printer to the state, 1849. 20 p.: 1 full-page diagram of the bridge; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "17" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. No publication information, but J.M.G. Lescure printed other material produced during the state's involvement in this case. The state of Pennsylvania sought an injunction against bridges erected from Zane's Island to both Virginia and Ohio, which obstructed the navigation of the Ohio River, impacting the movement of boats to and from the port of Pittsburg. This was part of a case that concluded before the U.S. Supreme Court in

1855 as Pennsylvania v. Wheeling & Belmont Bridge Co. (59 U.S. 18 How. 421), commonly known as the Wheeling Bridge Case. Supreme Court Justice Robert Cooper Grier (1794-1870) heard this request for an injunction and on Sept. 1, 1849, ruled that Pennsylvania could move for an injunction when the full court reconvened. In Very Good+ Condition: disbound; light foxing on first page; otherwise, clean. (#005099) $125.00

9. Ingersoll, Charles Jared. Opinion of Counsel on the Legality of the City Ordinance for Constructing a Railroad over the Market Street Bridge. Philadelphia: s.n., 1850. 8 p.; 21 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "24" in ink at upper right-hand corner of first page. Caption title. Charles Jared Ingersoll (1782-1862) was a prominent lawyer in Philadelphia. In this opinion he argues that the city of Philadelphia did not have the authority to extend the railroad over the Schuylkill River on the existing Market Street bridge. The city nevertheless used the existing Permanent Bridge to bring the railroad across the river to the city. Very scarce. In Very Good- Condition: disbound; last leaf is partially detached; minimal foxing; otherwise, clean. (#005106) $125.00

10. Ingersoll, Charles, attributed. Some Objections to a Joint Resolution, Passed at the Last Session of the Legislature, and about to be submitted at the Approaching Session.

Recommending to the People of Pennsylvania an Elective Judiciary. 61 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "23" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. In lower half of title page: "by Charles Ingersoll." No publication information. Charles Ingersoll (1805-1882) was the son of Charles Jared Ingersoll (1782-1862), both lawyers in Philadelphia. Charles Ingersoll was the author of several other publications on legal matters. Although opposed by the author of this publication, the joint resolution led to an amendment of the Pennsylvania constitution in 1850 introducing the elective judiciary to the state. In the upper right-hand corner of the title page is the partially cropped signature of Craig Biddle (1823-1910), who was a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1850 and later a judge. Marginal notations in ink by Biddle, and others in pencil, possibly by another hand. Unfortunately, both the fore-edges and the upper edges were cropped when this was bound with the other pamphlets. Very scarce. In Very Good- Condition: disbound; light foxing on a few pages; marginalia; otherwise, clean. (#005105) $250.00

11. Lewis, Enoch. Observations on Legal and Judicial Oaths; Including a Brief Notice of the Measures of the British Government for the Abolition of Unnecessary Oaths by Enoch Lewis. Philadelphia: Joseph Rakestraw, 1848. 16 p.; 22 cm. Lacking wrapper. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "20" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Enoch Lewis (1776-1856) was a Pennsylvania Quaker and a mathematician who edited several mathematical works and published several textbooks, including one on spherical projections. He was an abolitionist, establishing the monthly journal African Observer and taking an active role in the Underground Railroad in Chester County, Pa. In this pamphlet he examines another issue of concern to the Society of Friends, that of legal and judicial oaths, which Friends refused to take. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition; lacking wrapper; disbound; very light foxing on title page and p. 16; otherwise, clean and bright. (#005102) $125.00

12. Mallery, Garrick. Reply to the Argument of the Hon. John N. Purviance, before the Committee of the Senate, on the subject of the Bank of Pennsylvania, by Garrick Mallery. Harrisburg: Pennsylvania General Assembly, 1858. 20 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "6" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. No date of publication. Information in the publication goes up to 1858. Lawyer and judge Garrick Mallery (1784-1866) served in the Pennsylvania legislature from 1827 to 1830 and was chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means when the Bank of Pennsylvania was rechartered in 1830. This publication relating to the demise of the Bank of Pennsylvania during the financial panic of 1857-1858 is very scarce. In Very Good- Condition: disbound; last leaf is detached but present; foxing, heavy on pp. 19-20; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005088) $125.00

13. Mallery, Garrick. Statement of Facts, in regard to the Taking of the Loan of Four Million Dollars by the Bank of Pennsylvania, in March, 1830, Connected with the Re-Charter of said Bank by Garrick Mallery, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means at that time. Harrisburg: Pennsylvania General Assembly, 1849. 15, [1] p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "5" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Light marginal pencil marks throughout. No date of publication. Information in the publication goes up to 1848; the State Library of Pennsylvania gives 1849 as the year of publication. Lawyer and judge Garrick Mallery (1784-1866) served in the Pennsylvania legislature from 1827 to 1830. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition: disbound; first leaf and last leaf detached but present; light marginal pencil marks; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005087) $125.00

14. Memorial of the President, Directors, and Company of the Bank of Pennsylvania. Harrisburg: Pennsylvania Treasury, 1851. 10 p.; 24 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "7" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. No date of publication but published in response to the declaration in 1851 by the state treasurer, John M. Bickel, that the Bank of Pennsylvania was subject to the tax on dividends. Very scarce. In Good Condition: disbound; heavily foxed; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005089) $75.00

15. Meredith, William Morris; Binney, Horace. Opinion of Messrs.Meredith & Binney, As to the Right of the Corporation of the City of Philadelphia to the Use of the Water and Water-Power of the River Schuylkill at Fair Mount Dam; March, 1843. Philadelphia: J. Crissy, printer, 1843. 15 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. The commissioners of the Spring Garden district (before it became part of the city of Philadelphia) sought to be allowed to construct a waterworks on the Schuylkill River, although under the current arrangement the city provided Spring Garden with water through its charter with the Schuylkill Navigation Company. Philadelphia attornies William M. Meredith and Horace Binney provide their opinions that such a bill would infringe the rights of the city. William Morris Meredith (1799-1873) served in the Pennsylvania legislature from 1824 to 1828; was president of the Philadelphia City Council from 1834 to 1849; was U.S. attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania from 1841 to 1845; and was U.S. Secretary of the Treasury in 1848 and 1850. Horace Binney (1780-1875) served in the Pennsylvania legislature in 1806 and 1807, and in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1833 to 1835. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition: disbound; light foxing; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005096) $85.00

16. Meredith, William Morris. Philadelphia and the Lakes: Address to the Citizens of Pennsylvania, in Favor of a Railroad to connect Philadelphia with the Lakes. Philadelphia: the committee, 1851. 8 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "4" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Caption title. The address was put together by a committee chaired by William M. Meredith. The address is followed by a statement by Daniel L. Miller, Jr., president of the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company, about the railroad proposed to connect Sunbury to Erie. The Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company had been chartered in 1837, but did not begin construction until 1852, when the state passed enabling legislation. No date of publication; based on information in the address, 1851 is the most likely date. William Morris Meredith (1799-1873) was a lawyer in Philadelphia; he served as Secretary of the Treasury under President Zachary Taylor in 1849 and 1850. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition: disbound; minor foxing along gutter; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005086) $125.00

17. Miller, Jesse. An Abstract of the Tax Laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, prepared by Hon. Jesse Miller. Harrisburg: J.M.G. Lescure, printer to the State, 1850. 11, [1] p.; 22 cm. "This abstract was prepared at the request, and under the direction of the Committee on Finance of the Senate of Pennsylvania, at the session of 1850": p. [3]. The committee consisted of Alexander King, William F. Packer, William A. Crabb, Maxwell McCaslin, and George Darsie. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "14" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Cohen, Bib. of Early American Law, 10634. Jesse Miller (1800-1850) served as sheriff of Perry County, Pa., before being elected first to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, then the state Senate, and then the U.S. Congress. Scarce. In Very Good- Condition: first leaf detached but present; light foxing, primarily to title page; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005097) $75.00

18. Pennsylvania. General Assembly. Rules Adopted by the Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, On Pensions and Gratuities, Session of 1850. Harrisburg: J.M.G. Lescure, printer to the state, 1850. 1 leaf 23 x 16 cm. Printed on one side only, within decorative border. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. The specified the payment of pensions and gratuitites to veterans of the Revolutionary and Indian wars or their widows. Very scarce. In Good- Condition: lacking lower left-hand corner, without impact on text; one vertical and one horizontal fold; partially separated along each fold in lower part of leaf with minor impact on text; small chip at lower edge, with no impact on printing; light foxing in upper part of leaf. (#005101) $75.00

19. Pennsylvania. General Assembly. Senate. Select Committee on Bridge Across the Ohio River. Report of the Select Committee of the Senate of Pennsylvania in relation to the Bridge Across the Ohio River at Wheeling, Virginia. Harrisburg: J.M.G. Lescure, printer to the state, 1850. 10 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "16" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. This report of the committee of the Pennsylvania Senate declared that bridges erected from Zane's Island to both Virginia and Ohio obstructed the navigation of the Ohio River, impacting the movement of steamboats and other boats to and from the port of Pittsburg. This was part of a case that concluded before the U.S. Supreme Court in 1855 as Pennsylvania v. Wheeling & Belmont Bridge Co. (59 U.S. 18 How. 421), commonly known as the Wheeling Bridge Case. In Very Good Condition: disbound; light foxing; otherwise, clean. (#005098) $75.00

20. Pennsylvania. Supreme Court. William M. Kennedy, vs. Samuel T. Bodine and the Commissioners and Inhabitants of the Kensington District of the Northern Liberties; Error to the District Court of the City and County of Philadelphia, September term,

1838, no. 313: Statement of Defendants in Error. Philadelphia: s.n., 1847. 16 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19thcentury pamphlets. "22" in ink at upper right-hand corner of first page. Caption title. At head of title: "Supreme Court, Eastern District of Pennsylvania. July 1847, No. 40." William M. Kennedy claimed that his property running from Maiden St. to the adjacent wharf in the Kensington District of the Northern Liberties (at the time not part of the city of Philadelphia) included half of the street and the wharf itself. Elihu Duplessis Tarr (d. 1851) and John Meredith Read (1797-1874) represented Samuel Tucker Bodine (1810-1879) and the commissioners and residents of Kensington, offering the history of the property back to the original 1689 grant to Michael Neilson and through its ownership by William Masters and his descendants to show that both the street and the wharf had been public property. Very scarce. In Very Good Condition: disbound; light foxing, primarily on first page; otherwise, clean. (#005104) $115.00

21. Read, John Meredith. Opinion of John M. Read, Esquire, Against the Right of the City Councils to Subscribe for Stock in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and to Increase the City Debt and Taxes for that purpose. Philadelphia: Printed for the Committee, 1846. 30 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "13" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Printed by the United States Book and Job Printing Office, Philadelphia. John Meredith Read (1797-1874) was a Philadelphia lawyer who served in the Pennsylvania legislature and as Philadelphia's city solicitor. He became U.S. district attorney of the eastern district of Pennsylvania in 1837 and sat on the state supreme court from 1858 to 1874. In 1846 the Pennsylvania Railroad was incorporated and began to seek subscribers to its stock. At a public meeting, a resolution was adopted recommending that Philadelphia and other municipalities in the state become subscribers, which would require that taxes be levied to cover the costs. The opinion of John M. Read was requested by Andrew Miller, Evans Rogers, and Clement C. Biddle, of the Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, regarding whether the city could be authorized to purchase stock in the railroad. Here Read explains why he was of the opinion that the city did not have the authority to buy railroad stock nor to raise a tax for cover such a loan. He also argued that "such powers were impolitic, inexpedient and dangerous to be vest in a municipal body." The appendix contains data on the state of the city and county finances at that time. Very scarce. In Very Good- Condition: first leaf detached but present; title page is foxed; otherwise, clean and tight. (#005095) $85.00

22. Strange, John. Reports of Adjudged Cases in the Courts of Chancery, King's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer, from Trinity Term in the second Year of King George I to Trinity Term in the twenty-first Year of King George II; Taken and Collected by the Right Honourable Sir John Strange, Knt., Late Master of the Rolls; Published by his Son, John Strange of the Middle Temple Esquire. London: Printed by Henry Lintot, Law-Printer to the King, for William Sandby, 1755. 2 volumes: iv, 714 p.; [4], 715-1272, [98] p.; 32 cm. Contemporary full calf with seven spine compartments between raised bands. Red leather label in second compartment of each with gilt-tooled title: Strange's Reports. Green leather label in third compartment of each with gilt-tooled volume number. Gilt-tooled decoration in remaining compartments. Blind rolled decorated border on each board. With the slip bound in as directed to the bookbinder where the portrait of the author was meant to have been, which could be exchanged for the print when it was ready, indicating that this was no. 642 and signed by the publisher, William Sandby. Includes indices by case name and subject, with single errata statement at the end of the former. Engraved armorial bookplate with motto "Pro Lege et Rege" on each front fixed endpaper for William Whitebread, engraved by H.

Dawkins. (A Descriptive Catalogue of an Exhibition of Early Engraving in America, #119). Henry Dawkins (d. 1786) was an engraver who worked in New York City and Philadelphia. William Whitebread (d. 1772?) was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar in 1753. Former owner's name on front free endpaper of vol. 1: H. Woodward. Other former owners' names on both title pages, most crossed out: Abn. Jonss, Andrew Robeson, J.B. Weidman, and Geo. Eckert 1789. The volumes contain cases from 1716 to 1747. Occasional notes in an old hand. In Good Condition: joints splitting; front board of vol. 2 detached but present; loss of leather at spine ends; occasional soiling. (#005126) $215.00

23. Biddle, Nicholas. An Address, delivered before the Alumni Association of Nassau

Hall, on the day of the Annual Commencement of the College, September 30, 1835 [Princeton University]. Philadelphia: John C. Clark, 1836. 24 p.; 22 cm. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. "3" in ink at upper right-hand corner of title page. Nicholas Biddle (1786-1844) attended the College of New Jersey (later Princeton University) before his career in finance, which included serving as the president of the Second Bank of the United States. In this address, Biddle advised the most recent graduates of the college to model themselves on Cicero, if called upon to become statesmen. "It cannot be that our free nation can long endure the vulgar dominion of ignorance and profligacy." In Very Good Condition: disbound; light foxing throughout; otherwise, clean and tight. NINETEENTH ANNUAL REPORT

PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTION

24. Chapin, William. Nineteenth Annual Report of the Managers of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind; Presented to the Corporators, At their Annual Meeting, February 2, 1852.

Philadelphia: John C. Clark, printer, 1852. 45, [1] p.; 22 cm. Pale yellow wrapper with engraved vignette of the original building at 20th and Race streets after the 1851 addition of a wing at each end. Small stamp "Dickinson" at lower gutter on first page of text. Disbound from a volume of unrelated 19th-century pamphlets. The Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind was established in 1832 by Julius Reinhold Friedlander (1803-1839) in Philadelphia. Later the school moved to the Overbrook section of the city and the name was changed to the Overbrook School for the Blind. This report, submitted by William Chapin (1802-1888) the principal, includes a list of 24 former students and their subsequent
