1. Address of the Catholic Lay Citizens, of the City and County of Philadelphia, to their Fellow-citizens, In Reply to the Presentment of the Grand Jury of the Court of Quarter Sessions of May Term 1844, in Regard to the Causes of the Late Riots in Philadelphia. Philadelphia: M. Fithian, 1844. 12 p.; 22 cm. Lacking wrapper. Stamped on title page: "Case 42 Shelf E." In early May 1844, Protestant nativists in Philadelphia, feeling threatened by the inscreasing number of Catholic immigrants, held public meetings accusing Catholics of seeking to have the Bible removed from public schools among other things. Incendiary language led to violence in which people and buildings were attacked. The Court of Quarter Sessions created a grand jury to investigate, which concluded that the Catholics were to blame and the nativists were "unoffending citizens." On June 18, 1844, a meeting of Catholic citizens of the city appointed a committee to draft a response. In this address they refute the unfounded charge that they sought to have the Bible removed from the schools and responded to other recent events. In Good Condition: chipping along spine; first leaf and last are partially detached; very lightly soiled. (#008189) $115.00

6. Butler, Thomas; Van Pelt, Peter. Proposed Mortgage between Thomas Butler and the Rev. Peter Van Pelt. Philadelphia: John C. Clark & Son, 1844. 1 mortgage form printed and sold by John C. Clark & Son, Philadelphia. In Feb. 1844 Thomas Butler of Moyamensing Township, Philadelphia County, hairdresser, drafted a mortgage to Peter Van Pelt, guardian of William Pope Van Pelt, Julia Emma Van Pelt, and Elizabeth Drason Van Pelt, for $2,000 for a three-story brick house on the north side of Fitzwater St. and the south side of an alley running from Hubbell or Lisle St. to Russell St. (between 8th and 9th streets). This was not the final version of the mortgage since the date in Feb. is not filled in and it is not signed or sealed. The Rev. Peter Van Pelt (1798-1873) in 1827 became the rector of St. Thomas African Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, which was founded in 1792 as the first Black Episcopal Church in the United States. In 1830 he left to be Secretary of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society and later taught at the Episcopal Divinity School in West Philadelphia. Thomas Butler, hairdresser, lived at 100 Fitzwater in the 1840s. He was a successful affluent Black barber who was a friend of James Forten (1766-1842), a Black abolitionist and successful sailmaker in Philadelphia. Probably Van Pelt had come to know Butler when he was the rector of St. Thomas or in any event as a result of the connections he made at that time. It is unclear who the three Van Pelts were for whom Peter Van Pelt was acting as guardian in making this investment. In Very Good Condition: lightly soiled; just starting to separate along center fold; otherwise, solid. (#008310) $95.00

7. Clarke, Lewis; Lovejoy, J. C. Narrative of the sufferings of Lewis Clarke, During a Captivity of more than twenty-five years, among the Algerines of Kentucky, one of the so call Christian States of North America; Dictated by Himself. Boston: David H. Ela, Printer, 1845. viii, 96 p., frontispiece portrait; 23 cm. Lacking binding. This version ends at page 96; it did not include pages 97-104, found in some copies, which contain poetry, or pages 105-108, found in other copies, which contain "From the South." Howes only includes the 108-page version. This is the least common version of the life of Lewis Garrard Clarke (1812-1897), born into slavery in Kentucky. After escaping to Canada in 1841, Clarke was active in speaking against slavery and dictated his experience, presumably to J. C. Lovejoy (1805-1871), author of the Preface and abolitionist. In Good- Condition: lacking binding; loss and closed 2-cm. tear along fore-edge of frontispiece, without loss of image; upper corner of frontispiece creased and lightly soiled; minor loss at fore-edge of title page; foxing and small stains throughout; solid. Contains photographs taken at five liberated concentration camps: Buchenwald, Belsen, Gardelegen, Nordhausen, and Ohrdruf. "This small but important book was distributed in Germany by the American War Information Unit at the end of the World War II in order to convey to the civilian population the enormity of the crimes committed by the Nazis in the name of the German people. Thus this book, which is not much more than a pamphlet, may represent the single most significant use of photography as a witness in the medium's history". -- Gerry Badger. In German. In Good Condition: rubbed with loss at corners and edges; one vertical crease throughout; closed 7-cm. tear from fore-edge of one leaf; several closed tears of 1 cm. or less; otherwise, clean and solid.
